The Broadcasting Yearbook 1990

THE BROADCASTING YEARBOOK 1990 shares with its predecessors the distinction of being the most comprehensive directory to the Fifth Estate. It covers the history and continuing growth of every field in the industry. To acquaint readers with the structure of the Yearbook, and to assist in locating information, the editors have provided a condensed guide to each of the nine major sections: The Fifth Estate, Radio, Television, Cable, Satellites, Programing, Advertising and Marketing, Technology, and Professional Services. In addition, the comprehensive alphabetical index begins on the following page. The general index is followed by an index to advertisers in the 1990 YEARBOOK. These are grouped according to service. Finally, each of the nine sections has a complete index on the first page of the section.

CALL OR WRITE TODAY

We carry a large supply of cords, receivers, monitor and mic-line amplifiers.

Please write or call for further information and printed material on our Audioclarifiers and amplifiers.

Audio Implements GKC is a small company located in Brookfield, Wisconsin, a suburb of Milwaukee. We invented this ear piece and have manufactured it since 1967. All major television networks use our products and have for many years. We hope to have the opportunity to be of service to you.

The On-Camera Audioclarifier is used mostly for talent. It comes with six different size ear tips or a custom ear piece. Both custom and tip models are also used for security and surveillance work.

A Glossary of Terms Used in Yearbook

Basic cable service-Package of cable programing provided to subscribers without additional fee.
Cable television-System that transmits orginal programing, and programing of broadcast television stations, to consumers over wired network (see page A-6).
Clear channel-AM radio station allowed to dominate its frequency with up to 50 kw of power; their signals are generally protected for distance of up to 750 miles at night.
Coaxial cable-Cable with several common axis lines under protective sheath used for television signal transmissions.
CC-Closed captioning. Method of transmitting textual information over television channel's vertical blanking interval; transmissions are deciphered with decoders; decoded transmissions appear as text superimposed over television image.
CED-Capacitance electronic disk (RCA videodisk).
Common carrier-Telecommunication company that provides communications transmission services to public.
DBS-Direct broadcast satellite. High powered satellite authorized to broadcast direct to homes (see page A-7).
Domsat-Domestic satellite (see page A-6).
Downlink-Earth station used to receive signals from satellites.
Earth station-Equipment used for transmitting or receiving satellite communications.
EFT-Electronic funds transfer.
EM-Electronic mail.
ENG-Electronic news gathering.
ETV-Educational television.
Footprint-Area on earth within which satellite's signal can be received.
Geostationary orbit-Orbit 22,300 miles above earth's equator where satellites circle earth at same rate earth rotates.
Ghz-Gigahertz. 1,000 megahertz.
HDTV-High-definition television (see page A-7).
Headend-Facility in cable system from which all signals originate. (Local and distant television stations, and satellite programing, are picked up and amplified for retransmission through system.)
Hertz-A unite of frequency equal to one cycle per second. One kilohertz is 1,000 hertz; one megahertz is one million hertz; one gigahertz is one billion hertz.
HUT-Households using television.
ITFS-Instructional Television Fixed Service (see page A-7).
Khz-Kilohertz (see Hertz).
LED-Light emitting diode. Type of semiconductor that lights up when activated by voltage.
LO-Local origination channel.
LPTV-Low-power television (see page A-7).
LV-LaserVision (optical videodisk).
MDS-Multipoint distribution service (see page A-7).
Mhz-Megahertz (see Hertz).
Microwave-Frequencies above 1,000 mhz.
MSO-Multiple cable system operator.
NTSC-National Television System Committee. Committee that recommended current American standard color TV.
PCM-Pulse code modulation. Conversion of voice signals into digital code.
PPV-Pay-per-view.
PSA-Public service announcment.
PTV-Public television.
RCC-Radio common carrier. Common carriers whose major businesses include radio paging and mobile telephone services.
SCA-Subsidiary communications authorizations. Authorizations granted to FM to broadcasters for using subcarriers on their channels for other communications services.

Shortwave-Transmissions on frequencies of 6-25 mhz.

SHF-Super high frequency.

SMATV-Satellite master antenna television (see page A-7).

STV-Subscription television (see page A-6).
Superstation-Local TV station whose signal is retransmitted via satellite to cable systems beyond reach of over-the-air signal.

Tariff-Common carrier's statement describing services it offers and rates it charges.
Teletext-One-way electronic publishing service (see page A-7).

Translator-Broadcast station that rebroadcasts signals of other stations without originating its own programing.

Transponder-Satellite transmitter/receiver that picks up signals transmitted from earth, translates them into new frequency and amplifies them before retransmitting them back to ground.

UHF-Ultra high frequency.
Uplink-Earth station used for transmitting to satellite.

VCR-Videocassette recorder.
VHF-Very high frequency.
Videotext-Two-way interactive service that uses either two-way cable or telephone lines to connect a central computer to a television screen (see page A-7).
VTR-Video-tape recorder.

Broadcast Operation

Frequencies and Station Assignments—Radio frequencies differ in characteristics, and each service is assigned to a frequency band to suit its needs.

The AM aural service, sometimes called standard broadcast, occupies the band from 535 khz to 1605 khz. Radio waves travel with the same speed as light, and are of different "frequencies" (cycles per second) and "wavelengths" (distance between points in successive cycles). "Frequency" and "wavelength" vary inversely with each other. The latter term was formerly used generally to describe a particular radio wave, and still is in some other countries, but in the United States the use of "frequency" is much more common. The usable frequency spectrum has constantly expanded upward with developing technology, so that what were once "high" frequencies are near the low end of the total spectrum used. AM stations are assigned at 10 khz intervals beginning at 540 khz, providing 107 frequencies.

FM broadcasting occupies the frequencies from 88 to 108 mhz, with 100 channels of 200 khz width each, the lowest 20 of them reserved for educational use. Both the center frequency (e.g., "93.1 mhz") and the designated channel number from 201 to 300 are used (e.g., "channel 201" is "88.1 mhz"), although channel numbers are not in popular usage since they are not on FM receivers.

In television, where wider channels are required to carry both picture and sound, each channel is 6 mhz wide. The very high frequency (VHF) portion of the television service occupies the frequencies 54 to 72 mhz (channels 2, 3 and 4), 76 to 88 mhz (channels 5 and 6) and 174 to 216 mhz (channels 7 through 13). The ultra high frequency (UHF) portion of the television service occupies the frequencies from 470 to 890 mhz (channels 14 through 83). Designated channel numbers identify the frequency assignments (e.g., 54-60 mhz is "Channel 2"). There is no "channel 1" in television.

Although "AM" and "FM" are often used to refer to the standard broadcast and FM broadcast services, these terms more properly apply to the methods, "amplitude modulation" and "frequency modulation," used to impress aural or visual intelligence on the carrier wave. The "AM" principle is used not only in the standard broadcast service but also in the picture portion of television and in the international "shortwave" service. The "FM" principle is used both in the FM broadcast service and in the sound portion of television.

In all the broadcast services, the same aural or visual channel can be used in different places if the stations are far enough apart not to interfere with one another or with stations on adjacent or technically related channels. A TV station may be required to "offset" 10 khz above or below its normal carrier frequency. The channel assigned to such a station is then designated "plus" or "minus" as the case may be. This makes more TV assignments possible and reduces the possibility of interference.

AM and FM systems—Without being too technical, this is how an aural station works.

A person talks into a microphone as if it were a telephone. His voice sets up vibrations of varying intensity and frequency. The lower the pitch the slower the vibration. A cycle, or wavelength, is one complete performance of a vibration.

In the microphone, these vibrations are converted into electrical impulses which are then greatly amplified at the transmitter before being put on the "carrier" wave. The intensity and frequency of the carrier wave are constant. This wave, by itself, does not transmit music or speech, so it is varied to correspond with fluctuations of the speech or music received at the microphone. This is called "modulation."

In AM broadcast, the audio waves are impressed on the carrier wave in a manner to cause its amplitude (or power) to vary with the audio waves. The frequency of the carrier remains constant. This is known as amplitude modulation. In frequency modulation (FM), the amplitude remains unchanged but the frequency is varied in a manner corresponding to the voice or music to be transmitted.

These modulated waves radiate from the antenna tower at approximately 186,000 miles per second (the speed of light). Some of them follow the contour of the ground and are called "groundwaves." Others dart

A short course in broadcasting, 1990

There were 10,650 radio stations operating in the United States at the end of 1989. Of these, 4,972 were commercial AM's, 4,258 were commercial FM's and 1,420 were noncommercial FM's. There were 1,440 operating television stations: 548 commercial VHF's, 544 commercial UHF's, 123 noncommercial VHF's and 225 noncommercial UHF's. Most commercial TV's are network affiliated; approximately 444 operate as independents.

No single entity may own more than 12 stations in each service (AM, FM or TV). In TV, the entity is permitted to own 12 TV stations as long as they don't reach more than 25% of the nation's television homes. UHF's are assessed for only half of a market's television homes. Group broadcasters who buy interests in stations more than half owned by minorities are able to own up to 14 stations in a service, and are able to reach 30% of the nation's television households through their TV's, as long as two of the stations in each service are controlled by minorities. Newspaper owners may no longer purchase broadcast properties in the same market, nor may radio station owners acquire TV stations there, nor TV owners radio outlets. TV stations may no longer acquire cable TV franchises in the same city, and networks may not own cable systems at all.

In 1988, according to estimates by the Television Bureau of Advertising and the Radio Advertising Bureau, commercial broadcasting had total advertising revenues of approximately $32.8 billion. Television advertising accounted for $24.9 billion (75.9%) of revenues; radio advertising, for approximately $7.9 billion (24.1%). Public broadcasting had a 1988 income of $1.37 billion—18.1% from the federal government.

In 1988 television billings for stations and networks amounted to $9,600,000,000 (national network), $7,100,000,000 (national non-network), $7,300,000,000 (local), and $900,000,000 (national syndication), according to estimates by the Television Bureau of Advertising. The Radio Advertising Bureau estimated radio billings for stations and networks were $382,000,000 (national network), $1,402,000,000 (national non-network), and $6,109,000,000 (local).

There are more than 92 million U.S. homes (98% of all homes) with television sets, about 68% of which have more than one set. About 90 million homes have color. It is estimated that about 68.8% of TV homes are equiped with a VCR, and that about 55.7% are linked with cable systems, according to Arbitron Television. (Further data on cable TV appears in "A short course in cable, 1990" on page D-3.) There are an estimated 533 million radio sets in the U.S., 343 million (64%) of them in homes and 190 million (36%) out of homes.

The average American home watches TV for seven hours and 2 minutes a day, according to Nielsen Media Research statistics for the 1988-1989 season. And the latest study by The Roper Organization (commissioned by the Television Information Office) shows that 65% of the U.S. public turns to TV as the source of most of its news, and that 49% ranks it as the most believable news source.

The average 30-second prime-time network television announcement now costs $100,000 (spots on a top-rated series cost $200,000; low-rated spots average about $80,000). An estimated 109 million people watched the 1990 Super Bowl telecast. Thirty-second announcements during that event cost $700,000. Thirty-second announcements on individual TV stations range from $20,000 in top-rated specials in major markets to as low as $10 in the second-hundred markets. Radio spots costs from $1,000 or more in major markets to less than a dollar in small towns.

Radio Markets in the United States

The following is the Arbitron population ranking for Fall 1989, based on market definitions at that time. It is based on the 1980 U.S. Bureau of Census estimates updated and projected to January 1, 1990.

The MSA number is the population of all persons aged twelve or older in the Metro Survey Area. The TSA number is the population total of all persons older than twelve in the Total Survey Area. Following that are the call letters of stations which fall within the market as defined by Arbitron. The actual city of license for each station may be found by looking it up in either AM by Calls (page B-362) or FM by Calls (page B-371).

Certain market population totals are also imbedded in in larger nearby markets. It is therefore possible for a station to be listed in more than one market.

Radio Markets Ranked by Arbitron Metro Survey Area

This chart ranks the 259 radio markets by Metro Survey Area 12 plus population (see also the following chart of rankings by Total Survey Area). Figures are population aged 12 or older, based on the 1980 U.S. Census Bureau estimates updated and projected to January 1, 1990. Data reflects the Spring 1989 Arbitron market definitions.

* An asterisk following a market name indicates that the market is imbedded in a larger nearby market. See the Radio Market directory beginning on page B-444 for details.

Radio Markets Ranked by Arbitron Total Survey Area

This chart ranks the 260 radio markets by Total Survey Area 12 plus population (see also the preceding chart of rankings by Metro Survey Area). Figures are population aged 12 or older, based on the 1980 U.S. Census Bureau estimates updated and projected to January 1, 1990. Data reflects the Spring 1989 Arbitron market definitions.

* An asterisk following a market name indicates that the market is imbedded in a larger nearby market. See the Radio Market directory beginning on page B-444 for details.

Television Marketplace

The ADI Market Atlas

The Area of Dominant Influence is a geographic market design that defines each television market exclusive of the others, based on measurable viewing patterns. Each market's ADI consists of all counties in which the home market stations receive a preponderance of viewing, and every county in the continental U.S. is allocated exclusively to one ADI—there is no overlap. The total of all ADI's represents the total television households in the U.S.

The ADI is a standard market definition. As a television buying tool it is a geographic and demographic means for maximum efficiency. As a station tool it has applications for sales, programing and promotion planning.

Following, in alphabetical order, are Arbitron Televisions' 212 ADI markets for 1989-1990 with coverage maps for each; and county by county breakouts of TV households. Other data include the markets' stations, their cities of license, channel numbers and network affiliations.

Coverage maps show total survey areas in light shading, the ADI's themselves outlined in black, and Arbitron Metro Rating Areas in white. The survey areas consist of all counties in which the home market stations are viewed to any significant extent, including via cable. The Metro Areas usually conform to U.S. Census Standard Metropolitan statistical Areas.

Non-ADI markets do not meet Arbitron's criteria for having an ADI of their own; they are listed with the ADI of which they are a part.

A complete listing of the non-ADI markets and a cross reference list of cities in multi-city ADI's appear on page C-131.

Non-ADI Markets

The following single-county markets did not acheive ADI status because the preponderance of viewing is not to the home-market station. Neither did they meet the criteria of the 10% Rule to become an ADI. The home counties in non-ADI markets are assigned to the ADIs that do receive the preponderance of viewing.

[1] C-band and Ku-band columns indicate numbers of transponders on each satellite. End-of-life estimates are based on launch date plus 10 years.

[2] Although Comstar II has passed its design end of life and gone into north-south drift, Comsat uses tracking antennas to maintain use of that bird.

[3] Imbalanced loading of fuel caused GStar III not to reach 125 degrees on schedule following September 1988 launch. Expending station-keeping fuel to move it there by next fall will reduce bird's design life by five to eight years.

[4] Hughes finalized purchase of Western Union Westar birds Jan. 20 and, by September 1988 agreement with IBM, markets capacity on SBS IV and V.

[5] Announced July 7, Hughes purchase of IBM holding company, Satellite Transponder Leasing Corp., and SBS IV, V and VI birds (SBS VI is scheduled to launch in June 1990) awaits FCC approval.

is not required to be deleted from a cable community when that cable community unit falls, in whole or in part, within that signal's Grade B contour, or when the signal is significantly viewed pursuant to section 76.54 in the cable community.

(b) The provisions of sections 76.151-76.155 shall not apply to a cable system serving fewer than 1,000 subscribers. Within 60 days following the provision of service to 1,000 subscribers, the operator of each such system shall file a notice to that effect with the Commission, and serve a copy of that notice on every television station that would be entitled to exercise syndicated exclusivity protection against it.

Exclusivity contracts (76.157)—A distributor or television station exercising exclusivity pursuant to section 76.151 shall provide to the cable system, upon request, an exact copy of those portions of the exclusivity contracts, such portions to be signed by both the distributor and the television station, setting forth in full the provisions pertinent to the duration, nature, and extent of the exclusivity terms concerning broadcast signal exhibition to which the parties have agreed.

Indemnification contracts (76.158)—No licensee shall enter into any contract to indemnify a cable system for liability resulting from failure to delete programming in accordance with the provisions of this subpart unless the licensee has a reasonable basis for concluding that such program deletion is not required by this subpart.

Requirements for invocation of protection (76.159)—For a station licensee to be eligible to invoke the provisions of this subpart, it must have a contract or other written indicia that it holds syndicated exclusivity rights for the exhibition of the program in question. Contracts entered on or after August 18, 1988, must contain the following words: "the licensee [or substitute name] shall, by the terms of this contract, be entitled to invoke the protection against duplication of programming imported under the Compulsory Copyright License, as provided in section 76.151 of the FCC Rules [or 'as provided in the FCC's syndicated exclusivity rules']." Contracts entered into prior to August 18, 1988, must contain either the foregoing language or a clear and specific reference to the licensee's authority to exercise exclusivity rights as to the specific programming against cable television broadcast signal carriage by the cable system in question upon the contingency that the government reimposed syndicated exclusivity protection. In the absence of such a specific reference in contracts entered into prior to August 18, 1988, the provisions of these rules may be invoked only if (a) the contract is amended to include the specific language referenced above or (b) a specific written acknowledgement is obtained, from the party from whom the broadcast exhibition rights were obtained that the existing contract was intended, or should now be construed by agreement of the parties, to include such rights. A general acknowledgement by a supplier of exhibition rights that specific contract language was intended to convey rights under these rules will be accepted with respect to all contracts containing that specific language. Nothing in this section shall be construed as a grant of exclusive rights to a broadcaster where such rights are not agreed to by the parties.

Substitutions (76.161)—Whenever, pursuant to the requirements of the syndicated exclusivity rules, a community unit is required to delete a television program on a broadcast signal that is permitted to be carried under the Commission's Rules, such community unit may, consistent with these rules and the sports blackout rules at 47 CFR section 76.67, substitute a program from any other television broadcast station. Programs substituted pursuant to this section may be carried to their completion.

Effective dates (76.163)—No cable system shall be required to delete programming pursuant to the provisions of sections 76.151-76.159 prior to January 1, 1990.

Carriage of Other Television Signals. (76.60)—A cable system may carry the signals of any television station including low power television stations, television translator stations, foreign television stations, subscription television broadcasts, satellite distributed program services, direct broadcast satellite stations and programming from any other source. A cable system may also carry any ancillary service transmission on the vertical blanking interval or the aural baseband of any television broadcast signal including, but not limited to, multichannel television sound and teletext.

Manner of Carriage (76.62).—Where a television broadcast signal is carried by a cable system, the signal shall be carried without material degradation and programs broadcast shall be carried in full, without deletion or alteration of any portion thereof.

Input selector switches and consumer education (76.66)—(a) A cable system operator shall offer to supply to each new subscriber and each existing subscriber an input selector switch for each separate television receiver for which cable service is provided by the cable operator. The operator shall comply with the following in offering the switch and installing cable service.

(1) Offer to supply and install a switch for all new and existing subscribers within six months of June 10, 1987, and thereafter on an annual basis until June 10, 1992, unless the subscriber already has an input selector switching device or his/her television receiver has such a device built in;

(2) A cable operator may charge for purchase or lease of switches and associated hardware and may separately charge for installation of switches for existing subscribers. A cable operator may not charge new subscribers a separate fee for switch installation;

(i) A cable operator may offer to inspect and/or install antenna grounding systems for outdoor antennas and shall separately charge for such services.

(3) A cable system operator is not required to provide a switch to any subscriber who declines the required offer, but is not thereby relieved from making

A short course in cable, 1990

There are 9,900 operating cable systems in the U.S., serving some 27,100 communities. Another 200 franchises are approved but not built. Texas has the most systems (630) and California the most subscribers (5.5 million). Operating systems currently reach about 53 million subscribers, perhaps over 148 million people—57.1% of the nation's TV households. The largest (Cablevision Systems in Oyster Bay, N.Y.) has over 400,000 subscribers. Some have fewer than 100. Tele-Communications Inc. is the largest multiple system operator (MSO), with more than 11,300,000 subscribers. Industry revenues last year totaled approximately $15 billion. Most systems offer 20 or more channels. Systems constructed after March 1972 must have a minimum 20-channel capacity. The average monthly fee (basic service) is $15. Costs of laying cable range from $10,000 per mile in rural areas to $100,000 in urban areas and up to $300,000 where underground cable is required. An estimated 4,400 systems originate programing in their own studios, the average for 23 hours weekly. Equipment costs are as low as $30,000 for a small black and white operation and $200,000 for a color studio. Over 2,080 systems (21% of all systems) accept advertising on their local origination channels (excluding automated channels), with rates from $2 to $500 per 30-second spot. Most cable systems derive less than 5% of their gross revenues from advertising. Pay cable is on approximately 8,400 systems and reaches 50 million subscribers in 50 states. Most pay cable operators are reporting close to 84% penetration of their subscriber count. Home Box Office Inc. initiated the first national satellite interconnected pay network Sept. 30, 1975, using transponder time leased on the Satcom satellite. Aside from contracting for packaged pay programs, like HBO, cable operators can lease a channel to a pay program operator or secure their own programing directly from a supplier. Many systems have multiple cross-ownership ties.

Cable Systems in the United States and Canada

Key to Listings

Listed in this directory are cable television systems and franchise holders in the United States and Canada. Each is listed under the principal community of service, by state or province.

Shown to the right is a sample listing, with explanation of information keyed to the boldface numbers. This information is as of June 1989.

(1) Name of System, local address, zip code and telephone.

(2) Personnel.

(3) Area served, keyed by a solid square (■). Springfield is the principal community; the system also serves nearby Paris borough and Twilham township.

(4) County in which the service area is located.

(5) Type of TV market. According to FCC rules a CATV system is within a TV market if any part of the system falls within 35 miles of a commercial TV city-of-license. There are three locational categories: Top 100 markets; "smaller TV markets," i.e., any community with a commercial TV station not in the top 100; and, third, locations outside all TV markets. Systems outside a market may still be required to offer nonduplication protection if they fall within 55 miles of a city of license.

(6) Statistical data, also keyed by a solid square: total number of subscribers; homes passed by the system; total homes in the communities served; date the system began; length of the plant; cost to the subscriber for installation and monthly service; and fee the community levies on the cable company (usually a percentage of gross revenue). In states with across-the-board fee, the fee appears under the state heading.

(7) A third solid square (■) marks the beginning of the programing section of the listing. First there is a brief description of the system's channel capacity. Included are the total number of channels, the number which carry local broadcast television and the number of unused channels. Pan-State has 27 channels. Twelve are used for TV carriage; three are dark but available for future use. The system also supplies allband FM service. (If the system carries selected radio, rather than allband, the number of AM and FM stations is shown).

(8) Pay cable: the number of channels on which pay service is carried, the program supplier, total pay subscribers and monthly subscriber cost above that charged for regular cable services. Pay cable program suppliers are: Home Box Office (HBO), Showtime, The Movie Channel, Cinemax, The Playboy Channel, The Disney Channel, Bravo and American Movie Classics (the latter is sometimes supplied as a basic service), as well as several pay-per-view, regional sports and general programing services. Information on pay and basic cable programing services is provided in Section E (Satellites).

SAMPLE LISTING

Springfield. (1) Pan-State Cable Inc. Box 100 99999. (800) 555-1000. (2) Chester A. Arthur, mgr; A.G. Bell, chief tech. ■ (3) Serves Springfield, Paris bor, Twilham twp. (4) Washington county. (5) Smaller TV market. ■ (6) Subs: 3,000; homes passed: 4,000; total homes in franchised area: 15,000. Allband FM. (8) Pay cable: one ch (HBO; 350 subs; $9/mo.). (9) Basic cable: 2 chs (CNN, ESPN). (10) Origination: automated: 2 chs (news, time, weather); (11) access: 4 chs (public, educ, govt, leased); (12) other: 1 ch (remote/studio). (13) Adv accepted; annual volume $35,000. (14) Other services: two-way capabilty, burglar alarm. ■ (15) Ownership: Lunar Cable Co. 60% (see MSO); James Buchanon, pres. 15%; G. Marconi, exec VP. 25% (see Bcstrs in Cable TV).

(9) Basic cable: The sample listing shows that this system has two basic cable channels. The two channels carry satellite transmitted programing. Basic cable services carry a minimal charge paid by the cable system operator or no charge programing. Some cable systems group one or more basic cable services in a "tier", charging an additional amount above the basic charge. These services often carry advertising. Services are: ACTS Satellite Network, Arts & Entertainment (A&E), Black Entertainment Television (BET), CNN, CNN Headline News, CBN Cable Network, Country Music Television, C-SPAN, C-SPAN II, The Discovery Channel, Entertainment & Sports Programming Network (ESPN), Eternal Word Television Network (EWTN), The Fashion Channel, Financial News Network (FNN), Galavision, Genesis Story Time, The Home Shopping Network (I & II), KTVT(TV) Dallas, The Learning Channel, The Liberty Network, Music Television (MTV), The Nashville Network (TNN), National Jewish Television (NJT), Nickelodeon, The Nostalgia Channel, PTL-The Inspiration Network, QVC Network, SCORE, The Silent Network, Telshop, Tempo, The Travel Channel, Univision, USA Cable Network, Video Hits One (VH-1), The Weather Channel (TWC), WFMT(FM) Chicago, WGN-TV Chicago, WWOR-TV Secaucus, N.J., WPIX(TV) New York, WTBS(TV) Atlanta.

(10) Automated origination: These are generally alpha-numeric services providing a variety of information such as stock or sports reports, classified ads,, etc. Two channels are used by this system to carry automated news, weather and time.

(11) Access channels: Channels are made available for programing by persons other than the cable operator. Channels are assigned to the general public, educational institutions and local government. Channels may also be leased by private parties.

(12) Other origination: The sample listing shows that this system has one other origination channel. This system has the capability to produce both studio and remote programing. This type of origination often carries advertising.

(13) System accepts advertising (on local origination or automated channels), with yearly revenue shown.

(14) Other services offered by the system: "Two-way capability" indicates the distribution system is equipped to handle subscriber-to-headend signals. Special radio service (distant imported signals, shortwave, etc.) are also shown.

(15) Ownership, keyed by the final black square (■): If a multiple system operator (MSO) owns the system in part or in whole, reference is made to the MSO directory on page D-319 of this section, listing the particulars for persons and companies with an interest in three or more cable operations. (Canadian MSO's are listed in the following directory). Headquarters addresses and other interests may appear here, rather than under the individual system's listing. If a cable operator has broadcast interests, reference is made to the "Broadcasters in Cable TV" directory which is in this section on page D-319.
